Defensor PH14 and PH26

Maintaining the state of the art.

Preserving the value of priceless art exhibits is essentially a matter of keeping humidity as constant as possible. During the summer months, the relative humidity indoors rarely moves outside the 50–65% range. But once the heating is turned on, it often plummets to as little as 20–30%. This is the time of year when air humidification is vital, and when the Defensor PH14 and PH26 demonstrate their ability to regulate environments containing sensitive goods and materials. When it comes to perfect air conditioning, Defensor truly represents the state of the art. Defensor's PH14 and PH26 units are not only humidifiers but also effective air purifiers. When used during the non-heating period, they filter potentially harmful pollution out of the air, thus guaranteeing optimum air quality all the year round.

The Defensor PH14 and PH26 provide a perfect climate at the following museums and galleries:
